letter from the editors

Fellow Students,

Throughout our four years here at Erasmus, we of the Arch Staff, and our fellow graduates, have been unknowingly contributing to the contents of this book. Within the covers of this Arch are our accumulated impressions of the Old Gray School: our classmates, our teachers; and a record of our growth, both intellectual and emotional. We have attempted to carry on the theme of Tradition started in last year's Arch. We have covered many of the highlights, but there is a great deal left to be said. For it is impossible to include all of the intangibles that go into the making of a tradition, particularly a Tradition such as ours. We leave the further development of this theme to succeeding classes.

With these thoughts in mind, we give you your Arch, which we fondly dedicate to one who has stirred our ideas into actuality, and has given us the incentive to delve into the wealth of Erasmus Hall's history. She herself is the embodiment of our illustrious beginnings . . . for her great, great, great, grandfather was one of the original founders of Erasmus Hall Academy . . . and her family's coat-of-arms decorates our library walls along with those of Alexander Hamilton, Aaron Burr, John Jay and others. She has kept the indomitable spirit alive, and without her generous assistance this issue of the Arch would be non-existent. To you then, Miss Ella Suydam, we dedicate our Arch, with more thanks than we could possibly put into words.

We would also like to express our gratitude here for the unending guidance given us so graciously by our grade advisors, Miss Cameron and Mrs. Ginsberg. While we had only to worry about ourselves, they courageously assumed the worries of all twelve hundred of us.

Nor can we ever forget our mentor, Mr. Samuel Gallant, who guided us through deadlines, layouts, photography sessions, conferences, and staff meetings. Need we say more?

We have tried to translate our thoughts about our school into words and pictures. We believe that they are honest words and pictures.

Very truly yours,

The Editors

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF JUNE 1955:

Another Spring has come so swiftly, and with it another great class prepares to leave Erasmus Hall to enter actively upon the business of earning a living or to continue on a higher level this all important business of education. With you go the best wishes of the faculty for your success and happiness.

Our task as teachers has been to help you develop in body, mind, and character. We have tried to assist you to think clearly, to distinguish right from wrong, the true from the false, the fine from the tawdry. We know that if our way of life is to survive these dreadful times we must have intelligent, alert, informed citizens who will put public welfare ahead of personal gain. We believe also that the only real education is self-education, that you individually must do the hard and oftentime tedious work of learning, with your teachers as guides and helpers merely. In the same spirit we feel that the true test of character is self-discipline, the exercise of self-direction and control in all varieties of situations.

After two world wars fought to make the world safe for democracy and to abolish fear from our lives, we live, ironically, in a world fearful of totalitarian tyranny and of the terrifying catastrophes made possible by the H-bomb. Man's magnificent progress in science has been used to develop dreadful instruments of destruction and annihilation. Unless we are deterred by reason and a deep religious awareness of the brotherhood of man under the fatherhood of the God whom we all recognize in one manner or another, we may easily exterminate ourselves and leave our planet uninhabited except for the lower forms of animal life. It sounds fantastic but it is truly possible, unless men the world over come to their senses.

From the imminent dangers in this world you had no part in making, your generation will have the task of extricating mankind. May your generation see the happy outcome of the baffling problems now confronting us so that men the world over may live together in peace and amity. That is our hope and prayer for you as you leave us this June. Heartiest congratulations on your success and best wishes for the fullest success and happiness in the many years ahead.

Sincerely yours,

John F. McNeill

TO THE CLASS OF JUNE 1955:

It is always hard to say goodbye to those for whom we have an affection. So much comes from the heart that can be said only in the language of the heart.

To us, you have given of your friendship and enthusiasm to enrich our lives.

For you, who have done so much to carry on the fine traditions of Erasmus Hall, we wish the deep fulfillment of the rich promise you have shown. As Browning says, "A man's reach should exceed his grasp, Or what's a Heaven for?"

And, in the ancient meaning of the familiar words, we say goodbye: May you fare well and may God be with you.

We thought an important part of the Tradition of Erasmus Hall was the fine citizens it produced. Below are the remembrances of three extremely successful individuals, each of whom has contributed in some way to the advancement of our civilization and has thus dramatized the effect of an excellent education upon an intelligent and receptive person. Each of these famous graduates of Erasmus Hall has something in common with the other graduates of our school; famous or not, they never forget their Alma Mater.

Daru Interview

The world had achieved what it thought would be an everlasting peace in the signing of the Treaty of Versailles in 1919 . . . soon after, the League of Nations was formed.

In America, Woodrow Wilson was serving his second term as president . . . the sports pages carried obscure mention of a young Boston Red Sox pitcher named "Babe Ruth" . . . "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," "Smiles," and "Dardenella" were jazz band favorites. The nation was about to cross the threshold of the Roaring Twenties.

And at Erasmus Hall, Robert Daru was rehearsing in the star role of "Cleopatra's Capers." Whereas in 1919 Robert Daru, happy with top billing in the senior class play, was sporting a blond wig as Cleopatra, he is now well known on stage in the courtroom as one of the nation's finest trial lawyers.

Seated behind a huge mahogany desk in his Madison Avenue office, Mr. Daru nostalgically recalled his high school days. Looking back, Mr. Daru acknowledged that school spirit was a dominant factor in making even more wonderful the years he spent as an Erasmian. "The famous Erasmus kind of school spirit is tradition, and the wonderful faculty and class of 1919 had a generous share of both of these," he said.

A by-product of this wealth of school spirit was the "Busy Bee," a grade newspaper published solely by the students (whose editorials were quoted not only by scholastic contemporaries but also by the New York daily press), and the sponsorship of a high successful charity drive during the First World War.

Throughout his high school years, Mr. Daru was known as a "fighter." This drive not only led him to success in his profession, but made him largely responsible for the fact that the "Old Academy" still adorns our campus. The Fire Department had condemned the building and ordered its demolition. Led by Robert Daru, a group of active Erasmians were granted a hearing at City Hall, and with cogent arguments they demanded the salvation of the building. Mr. Daru proved successful in this, the first of many arguments. Not much time had elapsed before the budding young lawyer was again disputing an action looked upon with disfavor by many Erasmians. The Board of Education had suddenly reassigned (on the eve of the big track meet) Mr. John Battel, coach of the track team, to a position at another high school. Again Robert Daru was successful as he helped to persuade the officials to rescind their decision, and Mr. Battel has remained at Erasmus ever since.

The years passed, and soon Mr. Daru had become a member of the bar. His rise to the top of his field was phenomenal. In 1933, Mr. Daru had the distinction of being the youngest U.S. Senate Counsel ever appointed. Previous to his appointment he had been Assistant District Attorney of the County of New York. In recent years Mr. Daru's legal skill as General Counsel sparked the Committee on Justice in investigating the West Point cribbing scandal.

Mr. Daru has always lived both an inspiring and exciting life. His constant struggle against all that is unjust has given Erasmus good reason to be proud of him. Mr. Robert Daru has, through courage and determination, succeeded in life. He is as fine an example as can be set for our class of June 1955 to follow.

Mrs. Genevieve B. Earle is an outstanding example of an individual who has reaped the benefits of an excellent education, and who has coupled this education with an unusual aptitude in political administration; a field in which women rarely occupy the "top jobs." Mrs. Earle graduated from Erasmus Hall in 1903, and was a member of Arista.

Mrs. Earle's career was long and of great benefit to many people. In 1922, she was elected to the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, after actively assisting in war work.

In the years following, the former Erasmian was elected to the post of Bank Director in New York State. For "distinguished and exceptional service" she received a citation; the only woman thus honored with a gold medal from the Brooklyn Downtown Association for the most outstanding service to Brooklyn.

The first and only woman to be elected to the City Council, Genevieve Earle was also designated as Minority Leader, and retained this position until she retired in 1949.

"These Happy Few"
Erasmus Hall 1899-1903
By G. B. Earle

"In the retrospect of more than fifty years the Erasmus of my day still seems a shining and glamorous school and it seemed so then. It was a school of happy young people.

"I shall never forget the first meeting of the members of the entering class of that autumn who were assembled in what was then called the Study Hall on the second floor.

"Dr. Walter B. Gunnison, the principal, a tall broad-shouldered, handsome man, with a magnificent voice, greeted us, and explained the school's ideals and outlined the courses and the extra-curricular activities. One could readily see that he was a great teacher, warm, inspiring, and understanding. With him on the platform was his able assistant, Kate Turner, who with him became life-long symbols of what Erasmus meant to us. At that time Erasmus had only

professor doggett's studio

Hidden high above the old Arch, in a tower reached by only a single dimly lit staircase, is a room which is but a skeleton of its former colorful self. This room is Studio D. Its only claim to fame today is as a trap for innocent freshmen.

Actually at one time the Tower Studio, as it was known in the days of its most illustrious tenant, Allen Barrows Doggett, was the hub of Erasmus Hall social life and a museum of sorts. Professor Doggett was a unique teacher. He taught a love and understanding of art to his students. Those who knew him, loved him. As the Flying Dutchman, forerunner to the Arch, so ably stated, "Whoever knew Professor Doggett received a spark of his spirit and was the finer for it."

Born in 1860 in Groveland, Mass., he taught art in the tower studio for forty years, till his death in 1926. During his reign, the studio was a meeting place for all those students interested in a good time.

Professor Doggett was famous for his boys' camp, his outdoor picnics with groups of pupils, his remarkable goldfish living fifteen to twenty years, his roof garden, and his old costumes and antiques. His studio office and tank room were like old curiosity shops where pupils were allowed to browse. Daily, around noon, music and laughter could be heard echoing from the sanctuary.

The professor's proficiency in art was recognized by both Harper's and Scribner's magazines, for which he did illustrations. His work also included the illustrations for "Hans Brinker and Silver Skates." To gather sketches for the book, Professor Doggett journeyed to Holland and lived there for two years, gathering a wealth of curios for his museum.

Professor Doggett was also something of a character, to boot. He had his own method for marking and set his own standards. Dr. McNeill remembered a story about the professor which happened before his death. Dr. McNeill was a grade adviser at the time and noticed a missing mark for a feminine student of Professor Doggett's. Upon catching up with the art teacher and querying him about the girl's marks, Professor Doggett asked, "What girl? What does she look like?"

Dr. McNeill replied, "She's a tall blonde and pretty."

The kind professor quickly responded, "Oh, give her a 90!"

This does not indicate a weakness toward blondes, but rather Professor Doggett's disdain for marks. It was the appreciation of art, not marks, that counted with Professor Doggett.

In 1926, with his untimely death, a great Erasmus tradition started to fade. Today as we enter his studio, we no longer hear the music and laughter. The goldfish have long since died; the plants in the roof garden have withered; the costumes and antiques are gone. All that is left is but a memory in the minds of those who knew him.

Recognize this tradition?

The custom of throwing pennies into the book of "Desi" for good luck before a Regents' examination may well have risen from the days when the football team would join hands around the statue to ask benediction before a game. Given as a gift by Richard Young, an alumnus, it has been a meeting place for thousands of Erasmians, as well as a source of information and comfort.

The most famous football game is always held on Election Day, between Erasmus and Manual Training. The spirit of rivalry between the two schools has made this game a special event in the lives of Erasmians.

Erasmus Hall is rich in gifts from the faculty and alumni. This is evidenced by the very beautiful stained glass window in Chapel, given to us by the alumni, showing scenes in the life of Desiderius Erasmus. The stained glass in the Art Gallery is a memorial window to Dr. Walter B. Gunnison from his Faculty. Among other gifts to the school are the old grandfather clock in the library and the sponsorship of the semi-annual Richard Young Contest. Many other gifts, too numerous to count, have been given in the way of paintings, books, medals, awards, etc.

The library itself is a center of traditional significance. Eighteen coats of arms decorate the windows, each representing a family who contributed to the building of the old academy. Two seals, one of chevron, crescent, and stars, and the other of a bird, are those of Miss Suydam's ancestors.

Many traditions have originated from extra-curricular activities. Among these are the Rostra-Senate debate, the annual cake sale sponsored by the Leaders' Club, the athletic dinner, the Arista Installation ceremonies, and the Christmas bags sent to Kings County Hospital.

The tradition of Erasmus Hall is still growing. Our hope is that our class of 1955 has added, at least in a small way, to this living Tradition.

ΑΡΙΣΤΑ

Καλὰ κἀγαθά

"Arista is an old and proud tradition of our school," began the boy leader of Senior Arista, as he opened the traditional installation ceremony in the chapel.

In fact, the first installation was held in 1910, and was presided over by Dr. Walter B. Gunnison, then principal of Erasmus Hall. Ours was the first Arista, the idea was soon adopted by other high schools throughout the city.

Limited to a maximum of four per cent of our school's enrollment, Arista of necessity, makes careful selection of its members. It is therefore not surprising that the students so elected regard their membership as a much coveted honor, and wear their buff and blue Arista pins with such pride.

It would be discouraging, however, if one were to believe that of all our students, only this small group is capable of high scholastic and service achievments. The idea of Arista has never been to foster such a conception. Rather it has been to set standards and to honor the few students who come nearest to attaining them. Arista's purpose has been to set clear goals which may serve as a beacon for any student who looks to it as a guide.

Edith Nichols Putney, a graduate of Smith College in the class of 1899, and a few years later a mathematics teacher at Erasmus Hall, smiled graciously and acquiesced when a small group of girls expressed their desire to have her as faculty adviser for a mathematics club which they wished to organize. Thus the XYZ Mathematics Honor Society of Erasmus Hall was founded in 1904. During the early years of its development only girls were invited to membership, for some strange reason. Putney utilized her position not only to extend the students' mathematical education beyond the classroom, but also for character development. "For office in the club, Miss Putney sought not only the girl with executive ability, but also the one who needed executive experience to develop her."

Many years ago, Mrs. Berkowsky took over the club, developed it, and shaped it into the large, efficient and enjoyable service organization that exists today. At present the society consists of 125 members. The meetings are held every Friday afternoon in room 114, from whence can be heard occasional laughter and applause for the educational and often humorous lectures delivered. In addition to attending the meetings the members offer their services as tutors for many of the bewildered and perplexed mathematics students of Erasmus Hall. These last would no doubt have enjoyed one of the lectures delivered to the club last year entitled "The Heck with Mathematics," by Mr. Salvadori of the mathematics department at Columbia University.

Among the other activities of the club are the field trips, which never seem to wind up in fields, but rather in places like the United Nations building or the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

For XYZ, Erasmus Hall High School's Math Honor Society, long life and continuing success!

"Cash prizes ($5, $3, $2) for excellence in Regents' examinations in Elementary Algebra and Plane Geometry" was an offer made in the January 1932 issue of XYZ's Papyrus. The publication which we now know as a magazine with a glossy cover, photographs, and pages numbered with Mayan numerals, was then a six-page, coarse paper booklet, opening like an accordion. It came out twice a term.

Papyrus editors were fond of quoting Lewis Carroll, especially his quip about arithmetic, "The branches of arithmetic are Ambition, Distraction, Uglification, and Derision."

The column "Odds and Evens" offered frequent proof that Erasmians haven't changed much over the years. Items include, "There are several theorems to which the author generously states, 'The proof is left to the student.' One pupil wrote in his homework, 'The proof is left to the teacher.' "

A 1933 issue relates that "Miss L., in teaching a geometry class, demonstrated that even when one draws a circle free-hand there is a fixed point (the elbow), and a radius (the arm)." When she asked, on the next test, "What are the essentials of a circle?" the answer she received was "an elbow and an arm."

Masthead of the December, 1934 issue lists for the first time Mrs. Ruth L. Berkowsky, faculty adviser. An article suggests that math be taught by mass hypnosis, resulting in higher marks. "It would also enable students to catch up on lost sleep."

Outstanding among the many extracurricular activities of Erasmus Hall, stands the Leaders' Club, which has for many years added to the richness and principles of our school.

This club was introduced to our school in 1932 by Miss Anne McGlue, formerly of the Girls' Health Education Department. It falls right in line with good old Erasmus tradition because it was a "first"; in fact, it was the first club of its kind in New York City. It is the honor society of the Girls' Health Education Department, with members recruited on the basis of character, leadership, ability, and prowess in athletics. There have been and are many copies of our Leaders' Club throughout New York's high schools; however, their members are usually selected by the teachers. At Erasmus, girls are voted into the Leaders' Club by its members, and are made to feel at home by its "big sister-little sister" system. The Leaders' Club is the only club in our school that abides by a strict, enforced honor code, of which it is justly proud.

The girls in the club, aside from assisting the teachers by giving service and coaching various department activities, have a full program of worthwhile activities throughout the year.

The first activity of the year is usually the "Cake Sale." Cakes and cookies, which have been donated by the students of Erasmus Hall, are sold to raise money to finance a Christmas Party for orphans. When the jolly, festive holiday season rolls around, one can find the girls, in Gym 349, gaily preparing for their party. For the past seven years, the club has played Santa Claus to one hundred and fifty orphans from Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant orphanages. The children enjoy entertainment, feast on all the traditional yuletide refreshments, and receive surprise packages consisting of toys, candy, and fruit.

Another worthy activity of the club is to provide entertainment for the aged, blind ladies at Anthonian Hall. The girls also hold a play day, to which they invite with them representatives from the various city high schools to compete in a variety of different and amusing games. There are refreshments and prizes for all.

To climax the year's activities, the Junior members of the Leaders' Club hold a party for their Senior members. At this party, the Juniors enact songs and skits about each of the graduating members. Refreshments are served, and the Seniors receive stuffed animals as remembrances of the club.

The Leaders' Club for the past few years has been under the very able leadership of Miss Rosemary Holran, who has helped to instill the Erasmus Hall spirit in the Leaders.

As transmitters of some of the most worthwhile traditions of Erasmus, may the Leaders' Club long continue to be a stimulus for high ideals in school and later life.

he orphans' party

Erasmians walking into chapel on a Monday morning in 1898 would not have been at all surprised to have seen the twelve members of the Mandolin Club sitting on the stage and tuning their instruments in preparation for their weekly concert. Dr. Walter B. Gunnison, the principal, who had just organized the club, apparently thought that a few selections, followed by the entire student body singing "On, Comrades Bold!" "On To The Battle," and "Erasmus Hall," was the best way to prepare Erasmians for a happy week of school.

The Mandolin Club was quite a distinguished organization, for it played at the first anniversary of the Flatbush Library and at the Commercial and Liberal class-days.

Dr. Gunnison also started the Orchestra in 1898. It entertained at faculty dinners, commencements, and debates. But finding talent was difficult, and in 1901 the thirteen student members were being assisted by a faculty violinist, violist, clarinetist, cornetist, and bass player. A move in 1899 to organize a band was unsuccessful.

It was also hard to find vocal talent, and in 1899, the Glee Club was disbanded because of lack of members. Strongly protesting this move, eight determined boys got together to form the all-male "Double Quartet" in 1900. Their most appreciated selections were "Tommy Atkins," and "The Owl and the Pussycat."

The members of the music groups had a voice in the choice of musical selections they rendered. A visitor was informed that they would have nothing to do with classical music, but considered only ragtime. This in 1902.

The Glee Club and Cantata were added to the roster of musical clubs in 1937, being formed for the sesquicentennial celebration. They were so well liked that both groups became permanent organizations.

No present-day Erasmian needs to be told about the music clubs. The Orchestra, the Band, the Choral Club, Glee Club, Cantata and Junior Chorus all are to be thanked and congratulated. No one who has ever attended or participated in a Christmas Concert will soon forget the thrill of hearing the Choral Club's rendition of the stirring "Hallelujah Chorus," or the wonderful feeling that comes from seeing the beaming, proud faces of our musicians at the Spring Concerts.

In passing, we wish to mention Mr. Ernest Giovanelli, who left Erasmus Hall in November, 1954, to take up Orchestral duties at Wingate High School. Mr. Giovanelli taught music here for nine years. Year after year, the Orchestra ranked high under his direction; it was among the best in the city. This was the result of his unrelenting efforts in teaching Erasmians to play any one of a variety of instruments. Many musicians received their first musical instruction at Erasmus. The orchestra has now another fine leader in the person of Mr. Bowden, who helped to make our Christmas and Spring Concerts such great successes.

Music has been a tradition at Erasmus since 1898, and will undoubtedly go on as long as the school does.

The Spirit of Erasmus

ERASMUS Hall High School bears a great historic name. The sturdy Dutch settlers of Flatbush linked it with the name of Erasmus in a far different spirit from the one in which the modern vendor of cigarettes or face powder appropriates a famous name. The Dutch founders were nearer to Erasmus' time than we are, and they were well aware of what Erasmus stood for. It is reasonable to surmise that they intended that the name of Erasmus should serve to those who enter these portals as a stimulus and inspiration for serious scholarship, for unceasing search for the truth, for non-conformity with prevailing prejudices and superstitions, for a clear understanding of the difference between sham and reality, and for a fine discrimination between mob hysteria and rational demands for orderly progress. These are the things to which Erasmus devoted his life.

Happy indeed would we be if the students of this school carried with them the spirit of Erasmus when entering into the broader and never-ending school of life.

recently become a public high school, having been before then for more than a hundred years, a privately supported academy. The old wooden building stood in the center of a beautiful campus of green lawns and handsome elms. In the rear of the building was a simple athletic field where football, baseball, and tennis were furiously played after school hours.

"Perhaps the first and outstanding characteristic of those early Erasmus days was an inherent pride in the long and honorable tradition of this ancient school which had given to the community so many leaders. The second advantage was that it was a small school, not more than 500 pupils or less. This meant that pupils and teachers were on a friendly basis, and we all knew each other by name, many intimately. It thus encouraged the development of the individual student and the teachers were always ready to give friendly and wise counsel.

"The third, and possibly the most important influence of those days, was that we were fortunate to have had an outstanding staff of teachers rich in scholastic backgrounds and graduates of the leading Eastern Colleges.

"It was a pleasant custom, on fair spring and autumn days, for students to study on the shaded lawns and to eat their lunches under the trees, to visit and stroll about in groups, boys and girls together. The spirit of the school was one of honor and freedom under self-discipline, an unwritten code that was, on the whole, rarely abused.

"I wish there were space allotted me to recount the more amusing incidents of our daily lives; the stamping and cat calls in the study halls when a school hero or popular girl walked through, of the fun we had in Professor Doggetts' Studio on the third floor, the work on the Erasmian in the Editor's Sanctum, the afternoon dances, the dreaded "pink slips" which summoned us to a conference with Dr. Gunnison or Kate Turner, the attempt on my part, at the request of Dr. Gunnison, to organize a girls' baseball team, skating and hockey at the Claremont Avenue Rink, football and baseball games on the old Parade Grounds, (where we stood because there were no bleachers), and then later at Washington Park long before the days of Ebbets Field, a long roll-call of exciting young life.

"Being a student in those early far-off days was a great and rewarding experience."

JUDGE GARVIN INTERVIEW

We thought it a good idea to include an interview with the oldest living Erasmus alumnus, Judge Edwin L. Garvin.

Judge Garvin was born in 1877, in the old city of Brooklyn. When he was five years old, he moved to Flatbush, and a year later he began his education at Erasmus Hall Academy. Here he stayed for eleven years, and in 1893 he entered New York University. He was graduated from the college and entered NYU Law School. He was admitted to the Bar in 1899 and began to practice law. In 1904 he married Ida E. Crane. He now has two married daughters and seven grandchildren. Ten years later he was appointed Justice of the Court of Special Sessions. In 1918 President Wilson appointed him Federal Judge. He served in this capacity until 1925, when he resigned because he felt that the salary was insufficient to educate his children. He returned to his law practice for fifteen years, and was then appointed Kings County Judge. The following year he was elected Justice of the New York State Supreme Court.

the quarter, or, your g. o.

"Hey! Where's that whaling expedition and safari that you promised us? What are you doing with my quarter?"

This is a question that has always been asked by Erasmus Hall students. There is a segment of the student body which pictures the G.O. as an organization which is run by coin collectors who look for 1774 quarters so that they can turn them in for a 1957 Ford. There is the early-to-bed, late-to-rise group of Erasmians who have had a period each day to study this thought-provoking, perplexing problem. This is the daily detention core of Erasmus Hall H.S. They have it all figured out. The quarters go for a photo-electric eye system which Mr. Feldman operates, and is used to detect them just as they outrace the arch patrol. This money is used to help support the G.O. budget, which is usually between fifteen and eighteen thousand dollars. This quarter helps support the school's athletic program, its publications and after school clubs. If you were a member of the G.O. you were entitled to join any after school club. You were permitted to attend all G.O. functions and allowed to choose your student representatives. In addition you were given a large number of discounts at Madison Square Garden, the Empire State Building and dozens of stores and arenas in N.Y.C. These discounts, if used only once, would have more than reimbursed you for your quarter.

The primary purpose of the G.O. of Erasmus Hall is to further student government. It is hoped that through the General Organization the practical application of government machinery can be brought into the classroom. A touch of realism and responsibility is thereby fed into academic institutions. These realistic responsibilities given to the student are to serve as the connecting points between the "outside world of decision" and the "academic world of protection."

Student government acts as a stepping stone for future student leaders in Erasmus Hall H.S. There is an easy transition of control from one year to the next. We hope always that the future student governments will be a little wiser and a little more proficient than their predecessors. In this way there will be progressive school government. There is always the hope that these students will eventually partake in community life, to help make this a world ruled by social advancement rather than scientific destruction.

That is what your quarter is supposed to do.

GENERAL ORGANIZATION COUNCIL

The General Organization Council is composed of the President, Vice-President, and Secretary of the G.O., and one representative from every extra-curricular activity chartered by the G.O. The officers of the G.O. hold the same respective positions in the G.O. Council.

The Council's main purpose is to supervise all clubs, associations, teams, and organizations maintained by Erasmus Hall. The G.O. Council also helps to provide means of support for these clubs and activities; gives students a part in the organizations of their school, thus promoting leadership; promotes wider participation in extra-curricular activities; initiates, by legislation, changes in such activities, and recommends changes in the constitution of the General Organization of Erasmus Hall.

STUDENT GUIDANCE COMMITTEE

The Student Guidance Committee is probably one of the most important organizations in the school.

It exists to help incoming students adjust to high school life. Through weekly visits to each new official class, these volunteers explain school activities—in short, the privileges and responsibilities that come with being an Erasmian.

STUDENT ASSEMBLY

The Student Assembly is the body which gives every student a voice in the active student government of Erasmus Hall.

Each official class chooses its student assembly representative as one of three regularly elected officers of the class.

During the years 1951-1955 the Student Assembly, under its very capable adviser, Miss Nina Dusenberry, shaped school policy in the many important matters brought before it.

THE STUDENT COURT

The Student Court is the judiciary branch of the student government of Erasmus Hall. It is made up of a Chief Justice and six other justices. The Chief Justice is elected in Student Assembly at the time when the officers of Student Assembly are elected. He serves for one term as Chief Justice and then for another term as an associate justice. The other justices are the Vice-President of grade VI, the Vice-President of Grade VIII, the Boy Leader of Senior Arista, the Girl Leader of Junior Arista, the former President of the General Organization, and the former Chief Justice of the Student Court. Each justice serves for one term.

The purpose of this organization is to try all student-versus-student cases that may arise throughout the school term, and also to initiate procedures to try issues as well as the cases.

we read, too

"English is a language once popular but no longer spoken in New York." Sound familiar? It's a statement made in the Dutchman, circa 1925, the year Mr. Willis J. Earle founded our newspaper. Next time someone asks, "What is the English language coming to?" refer him to this gem which appeared in the first Dutchman in "Laffadontia," a humor column. "In dishing out the Dutchman premier number, we wish to nail on your minds, that after digging through the history of days gone by, we find that it repeats with the gay wagons of today. It may sound like Donkey Dust when we tell you this, but after you let your glimmers smear the pages up, you will say to yourself that this paper is no dub after all. In slipping the brake on, we would advise all Erasmians to buy the Dutchman if they have the jack."

The early Dutchman was a four page, tabloid-size weekly newspaper, without pictures. In 1927, it contained news of class picnics, proms, G.O. elections, and football games. The most widely read columns were "Corridor Chatter," and "Laffadontia." Club news was reported faithfully and included the following tidbits: "La Tertulia: Meetings are held every Saturday morning. At the last meeting, the girls were taught the art of Spanish pottery while the boys practiced passionate love songs." "Senior Arista points a finger of reproof at us and stresses the fact that there are only seventy-five members out of a school as great as ours. It is shocking to record that at the first meeting a dance was sugested by one of the intelligentsia."

The list of Dutchman faculty advisers through the years contains familiar names. Miss Elizabeth Genung was one of the three advisers in 1935, and Miss Ellen Batchelor assisted the adviser in 1939. During the war, Miss Mildred Noxon took over the reins. In this period, the Dutchman publicized War Bonds, Red Cross appeals, and replaced "Campus Chatter" with a "Service Column" in which excerpts from letters from Erasmians fighting were printed. In 1944, the Dutchman carried headlines about a "Bond Bowl" football game.

After the war ended, Dr. Anton Serota became adviser, and in 1948 was succeeded by Miss Erna Fleischer, who modernized the paper.

The Erasmian, initiated in 1898 by Willis Earle of the English department, is considered one of the top scholastic literary magazines in the country. This fact is substantiated by the many First Prize and Medalist awards received at the Columbia Press Conferences of the past.

However, the original purpose of the magazine was to serve as an organ of school news, as well as a literary publication. The first issue, dated October, 1898, cost ten cents a copy (or seventy-five cents a year) and was published on a monthly basis. It was fourteen pages long and supported a buff and blue cover with the Erasmus seal emblazoned on it. This cover remained unchanged until 1916.

The first major change in format was heralded by the announcement in the School News section of the May, 1925 issue:

"The Erasmian extends greetings to the new weekly paper, the Dutchman, and wishes for it the hearty support and patronage of loyal Erasmus Hall pupils . . . As we understand it, the aim of the Dutchman will be to keep our boys and girls informed of the daily events that would be lacking in news value if held for monthly distribution."

the dutchman

From this point on, more emphasis was placed on creative prose and poetry. Art work was also stressed.

Thus it can be seen that the Erasmian has evolved from a literary-news publication to the literary-art magazine that it is today.

"We, the class of January of 1929, dedicate this first senior yearbook in the Old Grey School's history." Thus began another of Erasmus Hall's fine, proud traditions.

Prior to 1929 senior news did not go unrecognized. It had been included in the annual chronicles and a wonderful story-book-like publication called "The Flying Dutchman," which appeared once every decade. The latter, though lacking photos of the graduates, contained histories of the academy and class (most subsequent editions have followed this precedent), school songs, poems, riddles, and sports and club news.

Again in 1911 and 1920 senior classes compiled "The Flying Dutchman," and finally in 1929, the first formal yearbook saw the light of day. It contained postage-stamp-size pictures of the graduates, accounts of the Academy, of the class, of sports and clubs, and a plethora of advertisements. Under each photograph appeared some personal note like the following:

"Not conceited, just self-appreciative."

"Tall and thin and full of vim."

"Another musketeer."

"Very quiet and unassuming, but oh my."

Are there any of us who voted for a "Beau Brummel," "Woman Hater," "Class Pest," "High Hat," "Fashion Plate," or "Age of Innocence" in the Senior Celeb' balloting?

Subsequent issues followed the first formula rather closely. Most included a Last Will and Testament, class and school history, appropriate dedication and class prophecy. In addition some early editions incorporated the June Erasmian, and thus boasted articles and fiction.

In 1933 the book made an advance. It took on a name—The Arch. Before then it had been called simply the Yearbook or Classbook. Now along with the formal title, it appeared with many more and improved photographs, and on top quality paper.

From year to year features have been added, changed, and dropped, yet our everlasting pride in our school has always permeated our yearbook's pages. Thus The Arch stands today, as it has since its inception in 1929, as a dedication to the "Old Grey School" from her departing seniors.

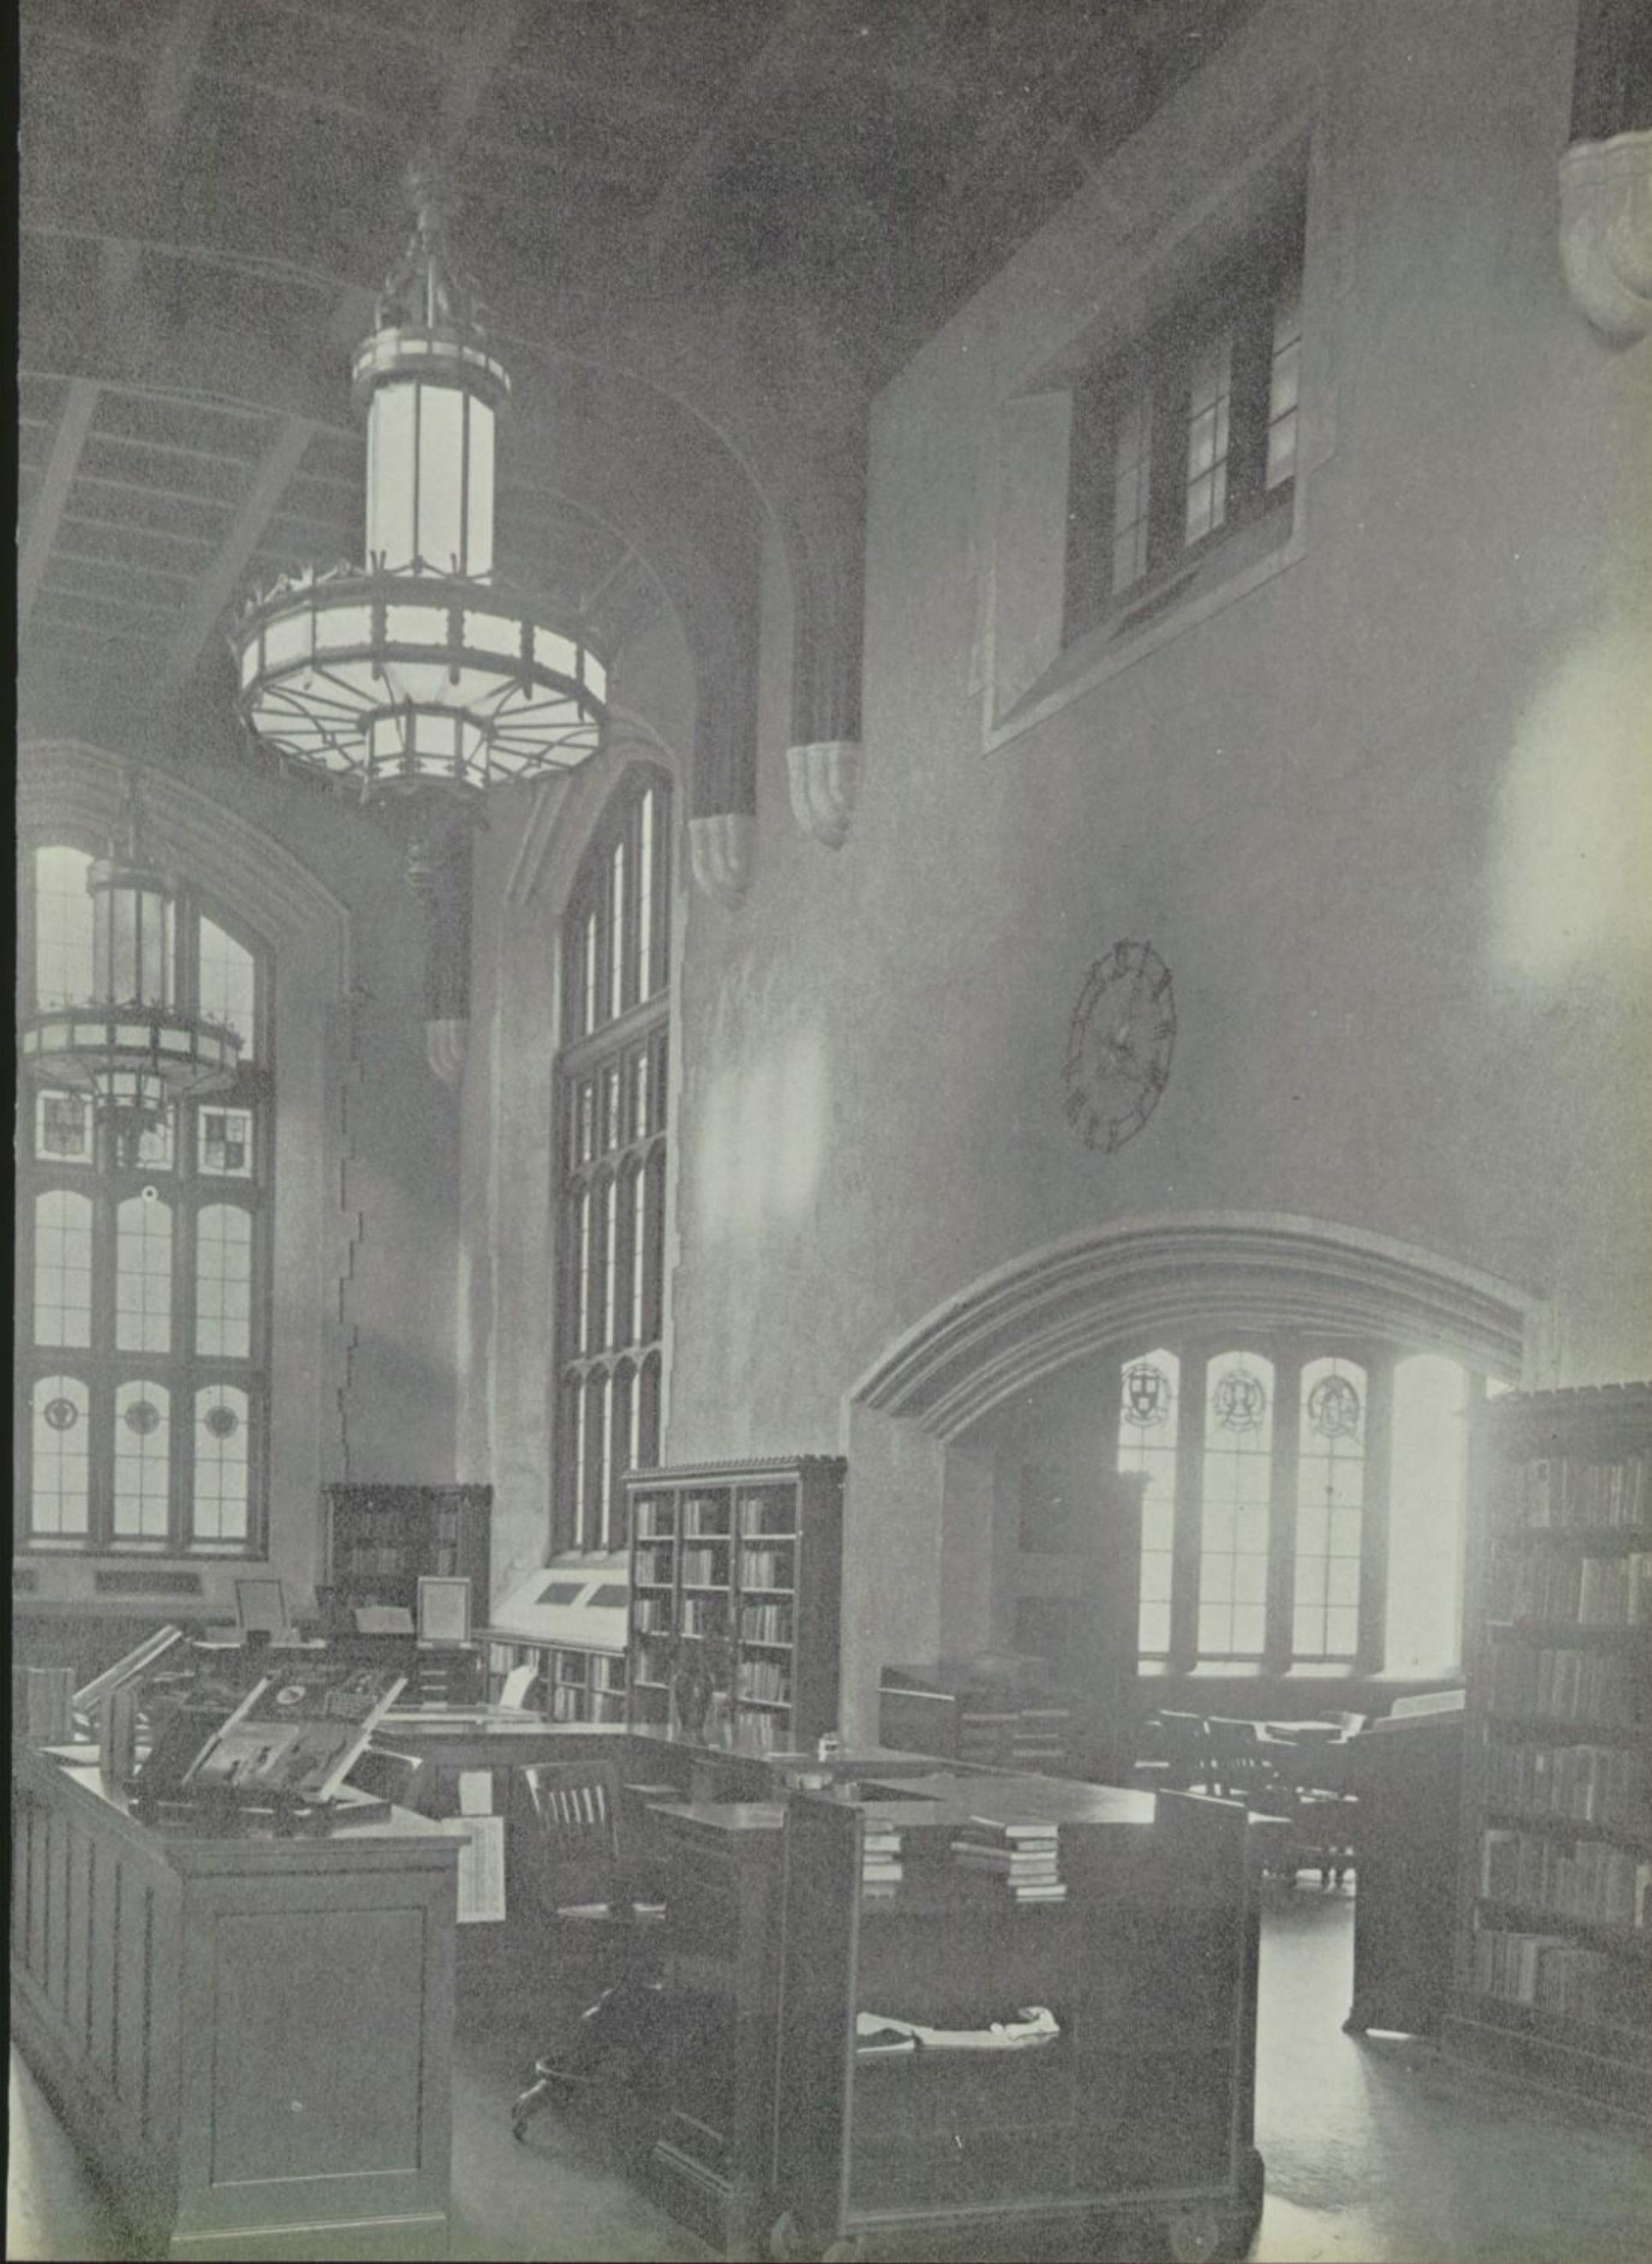
ssh . . . quiet, that is

It seems a long time since some Freshman English classes entered the school library for the first time to undergo the experience known as a "library lesson." These were our English classes only four short years ago, and we, like those who had come before us and those who will follow, were thrilled and deeply impressed by the beauty of this, "our library." Whatever we learned of the subject matter of the lesson, no one of us could have been indifferent to the library itself, with its exquisite stained glass windows and wood paneling.

In the years that followed, those of us who were wise enough to use the library frequently came to regard it not merely as a beautiful part of the school, but as the priceless heritage a library can be to those who avail themselves of its opportunities.

During the hours spent in the library, we found a wealth of fine literature. We found an excellent and convenient source of research books for those numerous term papers which were required of us.



Many of us spent countless lunch periods there frantically cramming for that particularly foreboding test we had been too lazy to study for. To a few the library was a retreat, a sort of sanctuary where one could escape from the hectic activity of the school and outside world. Others found that they could discreetly "slip away" from the lunchroom by stating that they were going to the library. Many visitors were attracted in this way and perhaps some found themselves digesting that unpalatable dish, culture, much against their better judgment.

In the eight rooms which comprise our library one can find books of fiction, travel, poetry, plays, science, art, nature, etiquette, biography, autobiography, government, vocation, and foreign languages as well as newspapers and magazines.

However, books are not all that constitute our library. It is a shrine to the great tradition of our school. It is a temple in which many treasures of our school are stored and displayed with justifiable pride. Perhaps an outsider would not regard these as treasures, for the actual monetary worth of many of these relics is slight, though others are indeed priceless. But we are not outsiders; we are instilled with an indefinable feeling called pride, and it is through our somewhat biased eyes of pride that we view these things.

One room at the end of the library contains our oldest book. Written in 1522, it is a translation of the Bible from Greek to Latin. The author is Desiderius Erasmus. Another is the third edition of Johnson's Dictionary, one of the oldest in existence. On another table is a letter from the West Indies written in 1831 to an Erasmus Hall student. A Solid Geometry book, published in 1787, is also among the collection.

In the magazine room, much of the nostalgia of Erasmus history is preserved. Among the numerous items is a scrapbook made by Dr. Low containing theater programs dated 1891. Other articles are Dr. Low's own stamp collection, a muster-roll from 1812, programs of Erasmus students from "Oratory Night" in the 1830's, a diploma received in 1890, a letter signed by Tennyson, Hamilton's and Burr's opinions relating to the lease of the Van Flyne Estate, the lease given Erasmus Hall by the Dutch Reformed Church, thirty medals won by an outstanding Erasmian of the past, a homework dated 1868, the Academy Catalog dated 1835, and a bill for six months tuition mailed in 1830. There is also a picture of the Academy in 1826 with children, geese, and dogs in the foreground. These are the things which distinguish our library from any other.

There were many people through the years who helped to make our library the beautiful place that it is. Our first librarian was Miss Mary Kingsbury in 1788. Our present head librarian, Miss Ella Suydam, is as much a part of the tradition of the school as our beloved "Desi" himself. Miss Suydam's ancestors for four generations have graduated from Erasmus Hall. Miss Suydam's four years here are comparable to the four years spent by many in this class of '55. She was a member of Arista, the girls' debating team, and the science organization. The present head librarian tells of serving as a student library assistant. After graduation from college, Miss Suydam returned to resume work in the school she loved.

No doubt some of this "class of '55" will return to our library after graduation, but surely all those who have used and loved it will recall the considerate, devoted librarians who have helped us out of many a difficult situation.

Despite the complaints today's Erasmians may voice in regard to the curtailment of some of our valuable freedoms here in school, limitations placed on the student body by the faculty have greatly decreased since 1789.

In that year our school's first Code of Behavior was issued. One of the freedoms students were shamefully deprived of was the right to fire a gun within the bounds of Flatbush. In 1789, drinking intoxicating beverages at the corner tavern was forbidden. Thank goodness for today's modern progressive system which has the perception to see how inhibiting such laws might prove to teenagers.

However, other outrages have been inflicted on today's students. The desire of girls to wear boy's dungarees to school and of boys to fashion their hair styles after the girls is doubtless a manifestation of some psychological need. Yet unjust rules preventing this have been established, (most painfully in some cases).

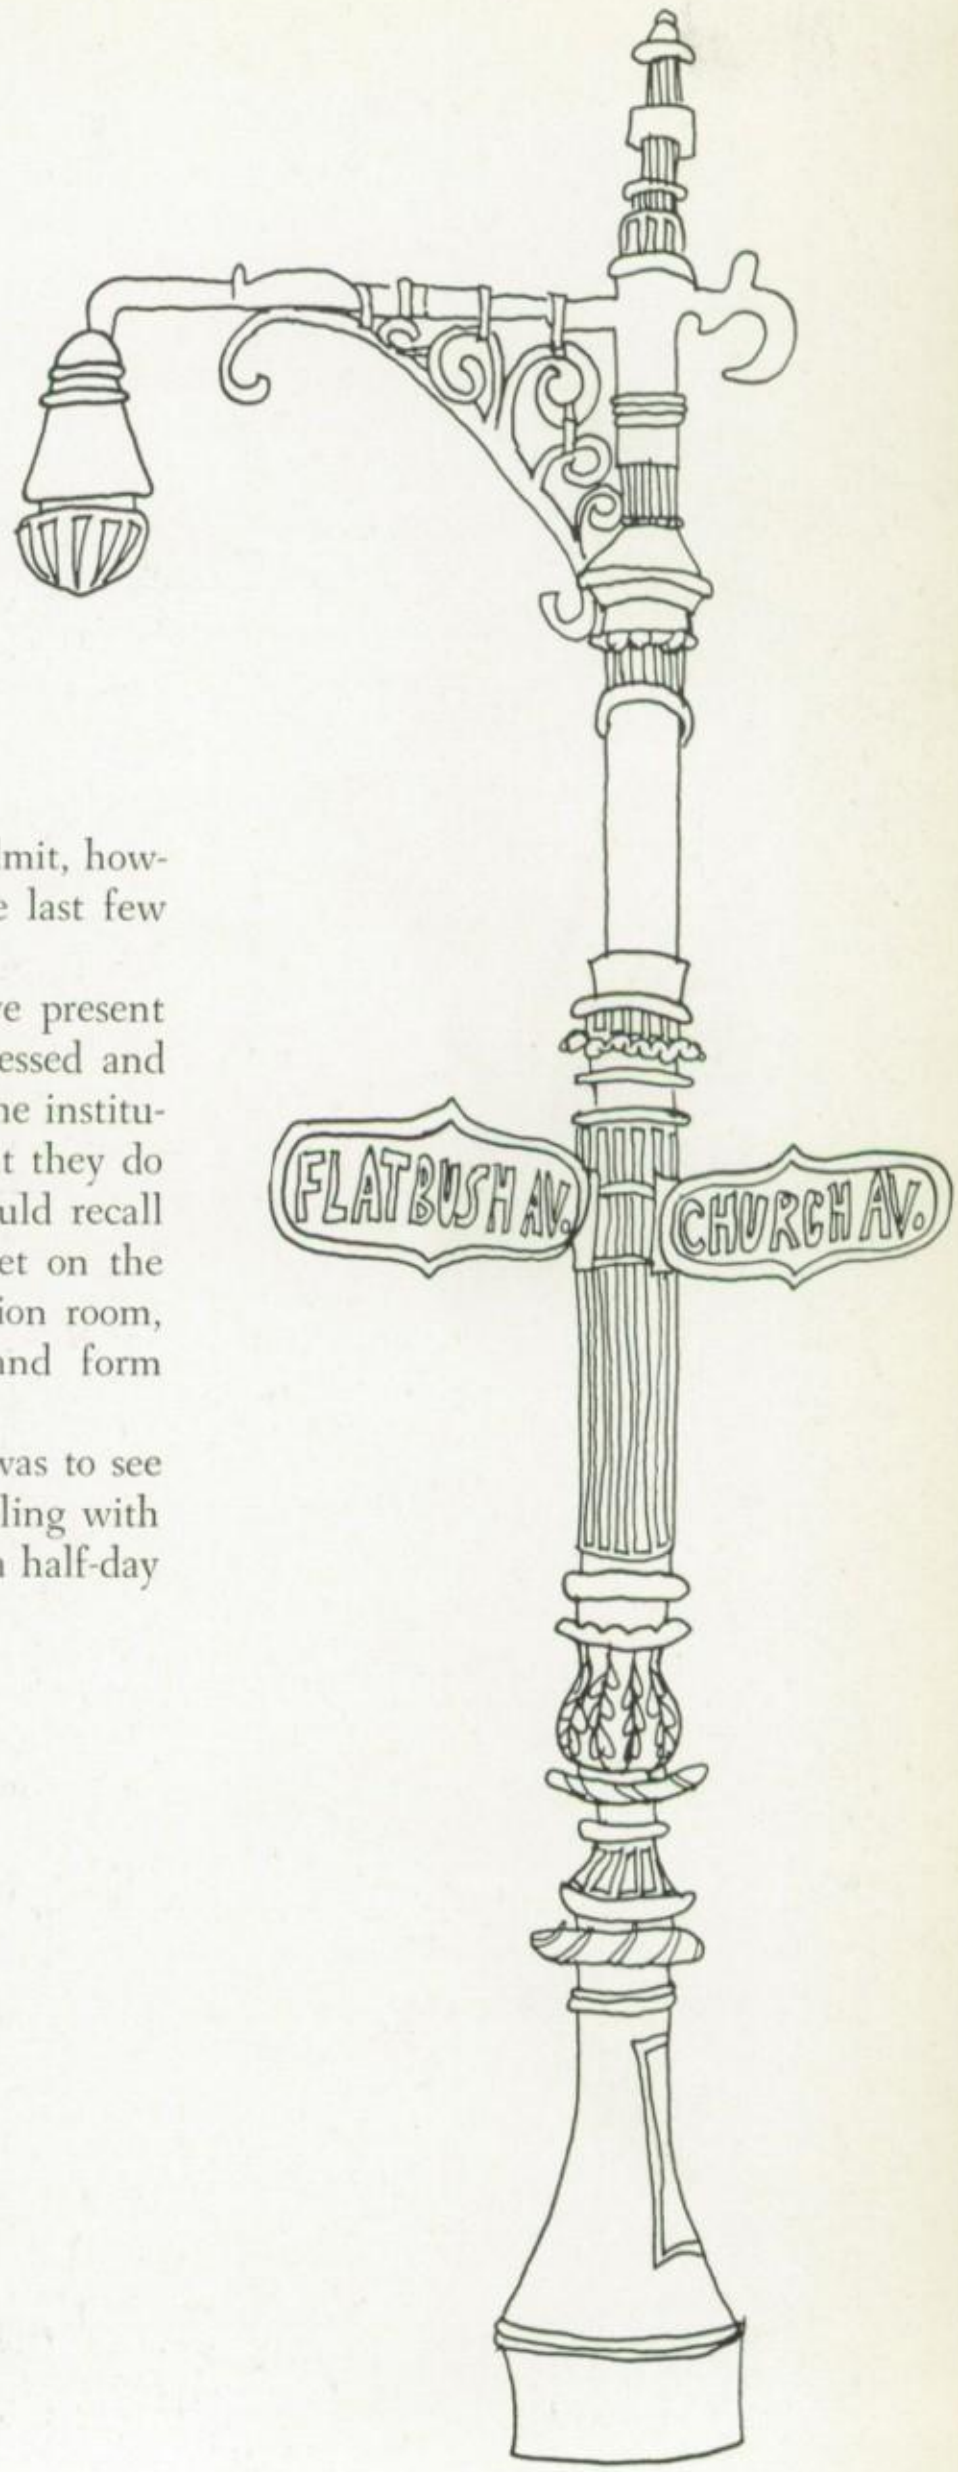
The student-honored precedent of smoking in the lavatories has been a very hot issue, (in more ways than one), in the student-faculty struggle.

With today's vast knowledge of psychology, certainly the influence these restraints have had on the emotional stability of a teen-ager cannot be denied. The only conceivably valid argument to uphold the faculty's side is the possibility of the school's burning down. This is but a small consideration, for what are material things when youngsters are threatened with maladjustment in later life because of some ridiculous rule imposed upon them in youth?

The most radical of the Student Rebellion will admit, however, that conditions have certainly improved in these last few years.

If an alumnus of the class of 1823 could observe present activity in Erasmus, he would doubtless be very impressed and rather envious. After that year girls were admitted to the institution, and no red-blooded American male can deny that they do something for the Old Gray School. An alumnus would recall the days when he served detention in a cell-like closet on the second floor and envy us our spacious, modern detention room, in which many habitual law breakers may meet and form pleasant and hair-raising friendships.

In 1896, a common sight on Saturday mornings was to see most of the faculty of 12 and the 150 students assembling with their bikes in front of the Academy in preparation for a half-day excursion.



Today's students find feather beds, (or air-foam mattresses), more inviting on Saturday mornings, although at about 8:30 P.M. Flatbush Avenue becomes congested with couples embarking on equally enjoyable excursions, referred to as "dates." We are birds of a completely different feather. While the 1896 Erasmian was an early bird, we are night owls.

An interesting fact, unknown to most of our present student body, is that there was once a lake, known as Lake Erasmus, in the center of the campus. This disappeared with the advent of a new drainage system. It is indeed an intriguing thought to imagine swimming to one's next class in the warm months and ice skating there in the winter. But who are we to argue with drainage systems?

During this time the new buildings were gradually erected to accommodate the increasing number of students. In 1934 the quadrangle was completed with the erection of the Snyder Building. This generally impresses the new-comers, but to some old veterans it is suggestive of another type of institution from which there is no escape.

In the year that Dr. John F. McNeill, our present principal, came to Erasmus, he was doubtless relieved to discover that although he was undertaking many responsibilities, he was not required to do many things the first principal had to do. These included: teaching, conducting church services, leading the choir on Sunday, and digging graves in the church cemetery.

Perhaps some mention is due Alexander Hamilton, John Jay, Aaron Burr and others, who contributed funds for the building of Erasmus, and who, in the final analysis, are responsible for this article.

His term ended December 31, 1947. He was then appointed official referee of the Supreme Court and after six years returned to his present job, practicing law.

We asked Judge Garvin what he remembered of Erasmus Hall, to which he answered, "When I attended EHHS, it was not a high school. It consisted of only one wooden building, now the Old Academy. Between the building and Flatbush Avenue was a wide lawn on which there was a number of fine trees. There the boys and girls played 'Fox and Geese.' "

To satisfy our curiosity, Judge Garvin explained, " 'Fox and Geese' was a game in which those representing geese lined up next to a fence on one side of the lawn. The one fox tried to catch the geese, who were running to the opposite side of the lawn. Those caught then helped the fox to catch the remaining geese. The last one caught was the winner."

"In addition to this," continued Judge Garvin, "there was a crude baseball diamond on a lot behind the school, where both baseball and football were played."

Commencement exercises, we were told, used to be held at the Town Hall, now the Magistrate's Court, on Snyder Avenue.

Said Judge Garvin, "I think I am the only person now living who took part in the centennial celebration at the Town Hall."

He concluded by telling us one of his unique experiences. "In my final year at the Academy, school membership dwindled, and I soon became the only boy in one of my courses. The teacher was able to give me special attention, and thus I finished the course with an exceptionally fine understanding of the subject. I often regret that students today cannot be given such special attention by their instructors, because of the large size of classes."

boys' sports

Coach Austin Dugan is looking forward to a very successful season. Led by seniors Donny Blattner, Larry Lotito, and Dick LaSala, the team hopes to better last season's mark of 12 wins and 4 losses. Blattner, a catcher, is counted in heavily for his defensive ability as well as for his fine hitting. Lotito and LaSala compose the left side of the infield. Also back is Ed Benson, pitcher, and three-year man Claude (Cat) Tinsley, an excellent infielder with catlike reflexes.

We can be sure that The Dugan men will be in there giving it everything they've got in their try for a championship.

Erasmus' tennis team of 1955 is expected to follow the precedent established by teams of previous years. Mainstays of the team are captain Ken Scheer and Dick Helfant, the players counted on to lead the squad to another championship.

One of the least publicized sports in Erasmus, but one of our most successful sports, is golf. Ably coached by Mr. John Campana, we have in three years of competition won the borough championship twice, and came in second last year. Returning from last year's team are captain Edward Ephraim, Mike Tobias, John Steinberg and Robert Post, who incidentally lays claim to a hole in one. The golf team with a year's experience under its belt, is looking forward to another borough championship.

Led by captain Ed Like and Charlie Kurim, the Erasmus mermen, coached by Mr. James Ryan, concluded their season on a victorious note. Although hindered by a lack of experience, the tankmen held their own against stiff competition.

Displaying a steady improvement, coach Abe Warchaizer's cross-country squad, led by captain Bill Stalder and distance runner, Mike Goldman, made an outstanding showing in the various competitions it entered. Steve Schwartz, runner-manager, offered valuable assistance to the hill-and-dalers.

Stu Levy, captain of the track squad, led the thinly-clads through an outstanding season. Larry Kramer, who displayed excellent skill in short runs, Cuck Kellert, a consistent runner, Jerry Tilman, who specialized in quarter mile meets, and Max Robinson deserve much credit for the sprinters' fine performance.

The Erasmus Hall Rifle Team, competing against twenty-one veteran teams, finished second in the P.S.A.L. tournament.

Ably coached by Mr. Benjamin Gerdy, ace gunner Alan Schrank scored 180, followed closely by Steve Kaplan, scoring 176. Other sharpshooters were Ira Kaplan, 174; Arnie Neilson, 174; and Mike Tobias, 163.

Although severely handicapped by the lack of their own rifle range, the gunners ended the season winning six out of nine matches.

The fifty-sixth annual Buff and Blue football season will be remembered for its display of spirited fighting. That spirit which motivated captain Billy Monahan to plunge forward despite a painful injury and Jon Roethke Erasmus's best back field man to roll up 1/3 of the Dutchmen's points is traditional at Erasmus Hall. The Buff and Blue gridmen, as a result of this undying spirit, truly exemplified the saying, "Win or lose, Erasmus forever."

After dropping seven straight games, the Flying Dutchmen bounced back with an impressive display of hard fighting spirit against their traditional rival, Manual Training, the final game of the season. Erasmus was ahead 33-6 as the final shot of the season was heard.

Both Monahan and Roethke will long be remembered. We will not soon forget the aggressive offensive plav of Mike Campanale . . . the kicking of big Hank Bisgaier . . . Dick Garfinkel's hard running . . . the smart playing of Cliff Koppelman . . . the fine blocking of Tom Hannon . . . Ivy Blum's offensive dashes . . . Larry Middleton's ball handling . . . ERASM

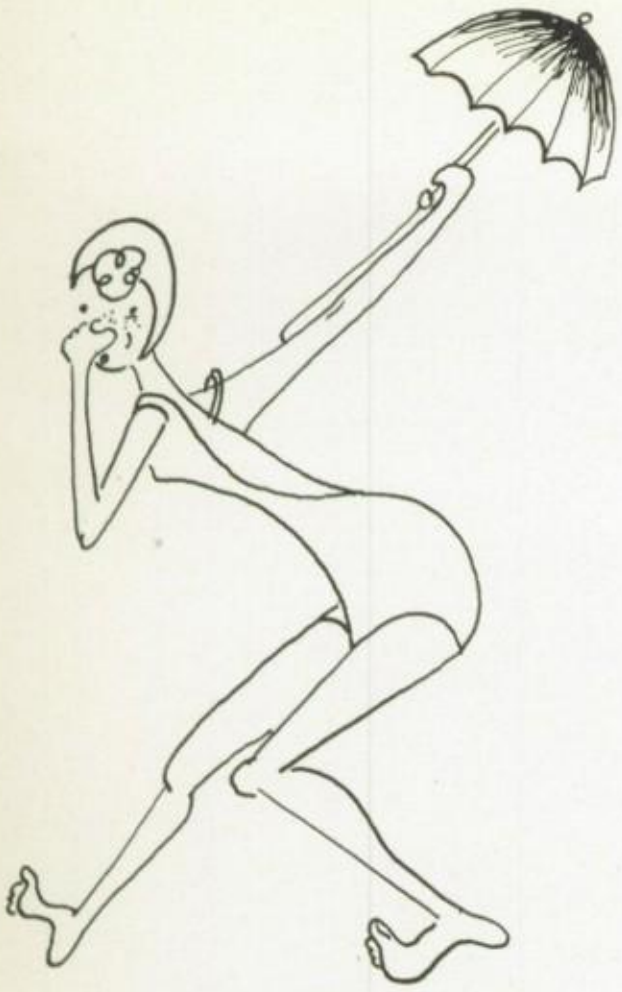
girls' sports

Looking back upon the history of Erasmus we find that athletics have always been linked with tradition. Our girls have been extremely fortunate, for Erasmus Hall was the first high school where girls were allowed to participate so wholeheartedly in sports. As we look back through the years we find that at each sport there stands a sort of monument, which has been a meeting place for that activity for many years. If these monuments were given human powers they could enumerate for us many former outstanding players and important events. For a few minutes let's delve into the land of make-believe and try to imagine that these monuments are alive and able to speak. What would they say?

I'm the old grey house that stands near the tennis courts in Lincoln Terrace. For many years I have seen enthusiastic tennis players smack the ball back and forth across the net. Last year for the first time I saw a new group of girls, dressed in the Erasmus Hall colors, coming out to tennis every Tuesday. Although their costume differed from Erasmians I might have seen twenty years previous, their love for tennis and their good sportsmanship was still evident of the true Erasmian. Although "Jack Frost" tried to prevent these girls from finishing the tournaments, under the leadership and guidance of Betty Chrzan and Marlene Fishbane the tournaments were completed. It was a tough struggle for victory, but Faith Charak and Carol Horowitz proved triumphant over Marlene Fishbane and Judy Forst.

Have you seen me? Sure you have! Who am I? Where am I? Well! I'm the training platform in Gym 425—Erasmus Hall. I'm made of brown wood and from my decks have been launched the orders of head coaches of volleyball for many years. I have watched girls dressed in green gym suits set up the ball, pass it to the front line—and then spike it over the net. I watched the teamwork volleyball requires, and this year I have watched and heard the orders for cooperation that head coach Marlene Fishbane demands. Assisting her at the net are Betty Chrzan, Helene Cohen, Faith Charak, and Sue Turk.

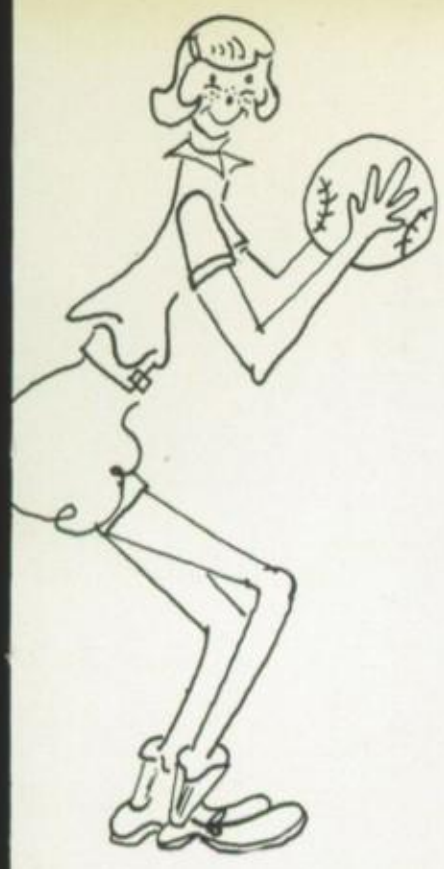


I'm a little shuttlecock and although half of my feathers are missing, I'm still in use. At first, badminton was played only by the Leaders' Club after school. Soon it became so popular that it was installed as a club. The feathers fly in Gym 57, under the auspices of head coach Barbara Kaplan, aided by Helene Cohen, Betty Chrzan, and Alice Lamberson. The girls who give me the hardest workout are Judy Forst, Royce Berne, Pat Mautner, and Ruth Steinbarg.

I am the diving board in the Erasmus Hall swimming pool. Although I've not been standing long, I've become famous in the seventeen years I've been here. I am not only a famous meeting place, but I also have produced many star divers. From my back I've watched many girls spring to success. One of my favorite visitors is Renee Bass, a girl whom I have seen achieve many awards because of her diving form. From my perch at one end of the pool I have a view far and wide. I have watched life saving, swimming meets, and aquacades. Among the familiar faces I have seen at the pool are Faith Charak and Carol Terceira, whose guidance and determination have helped many girls pass their test.

Hi! I'm a bowling ball in the Spinella's Alley. For many years now, Erasmus Hall girls have bowled here, and I'm proud to say that they have used me. This year bowling was started a bit late, but under the excellent leadership of head coaches Judy Bluthal and Ellen Schwartz, aided by Judy Feigenbaum and Sue Turk, the club was soon in full swing. Among the many senior bowlers are Barbara Wood, whose score was 169, Dorothy Jacobs, Helene Engel, Judy Feigenbaum, Renée Coppersmith, Sue Yelner, Dorothy Lazen, and Barbara Dombro.

Foremost among our sports is basketball, which was the first sport played at Erasmus. Head Coach Pat Mautner, aided by Marlene Fishbane, and Barbara Kaplan guided the girls through the tournament. Among the senior hoopsters are Delvita Hobson, Elaine Platt, Barbara Orenstein, Dorothy Lann, Sheila Levine, Florence Seals, and Helene Cohen.

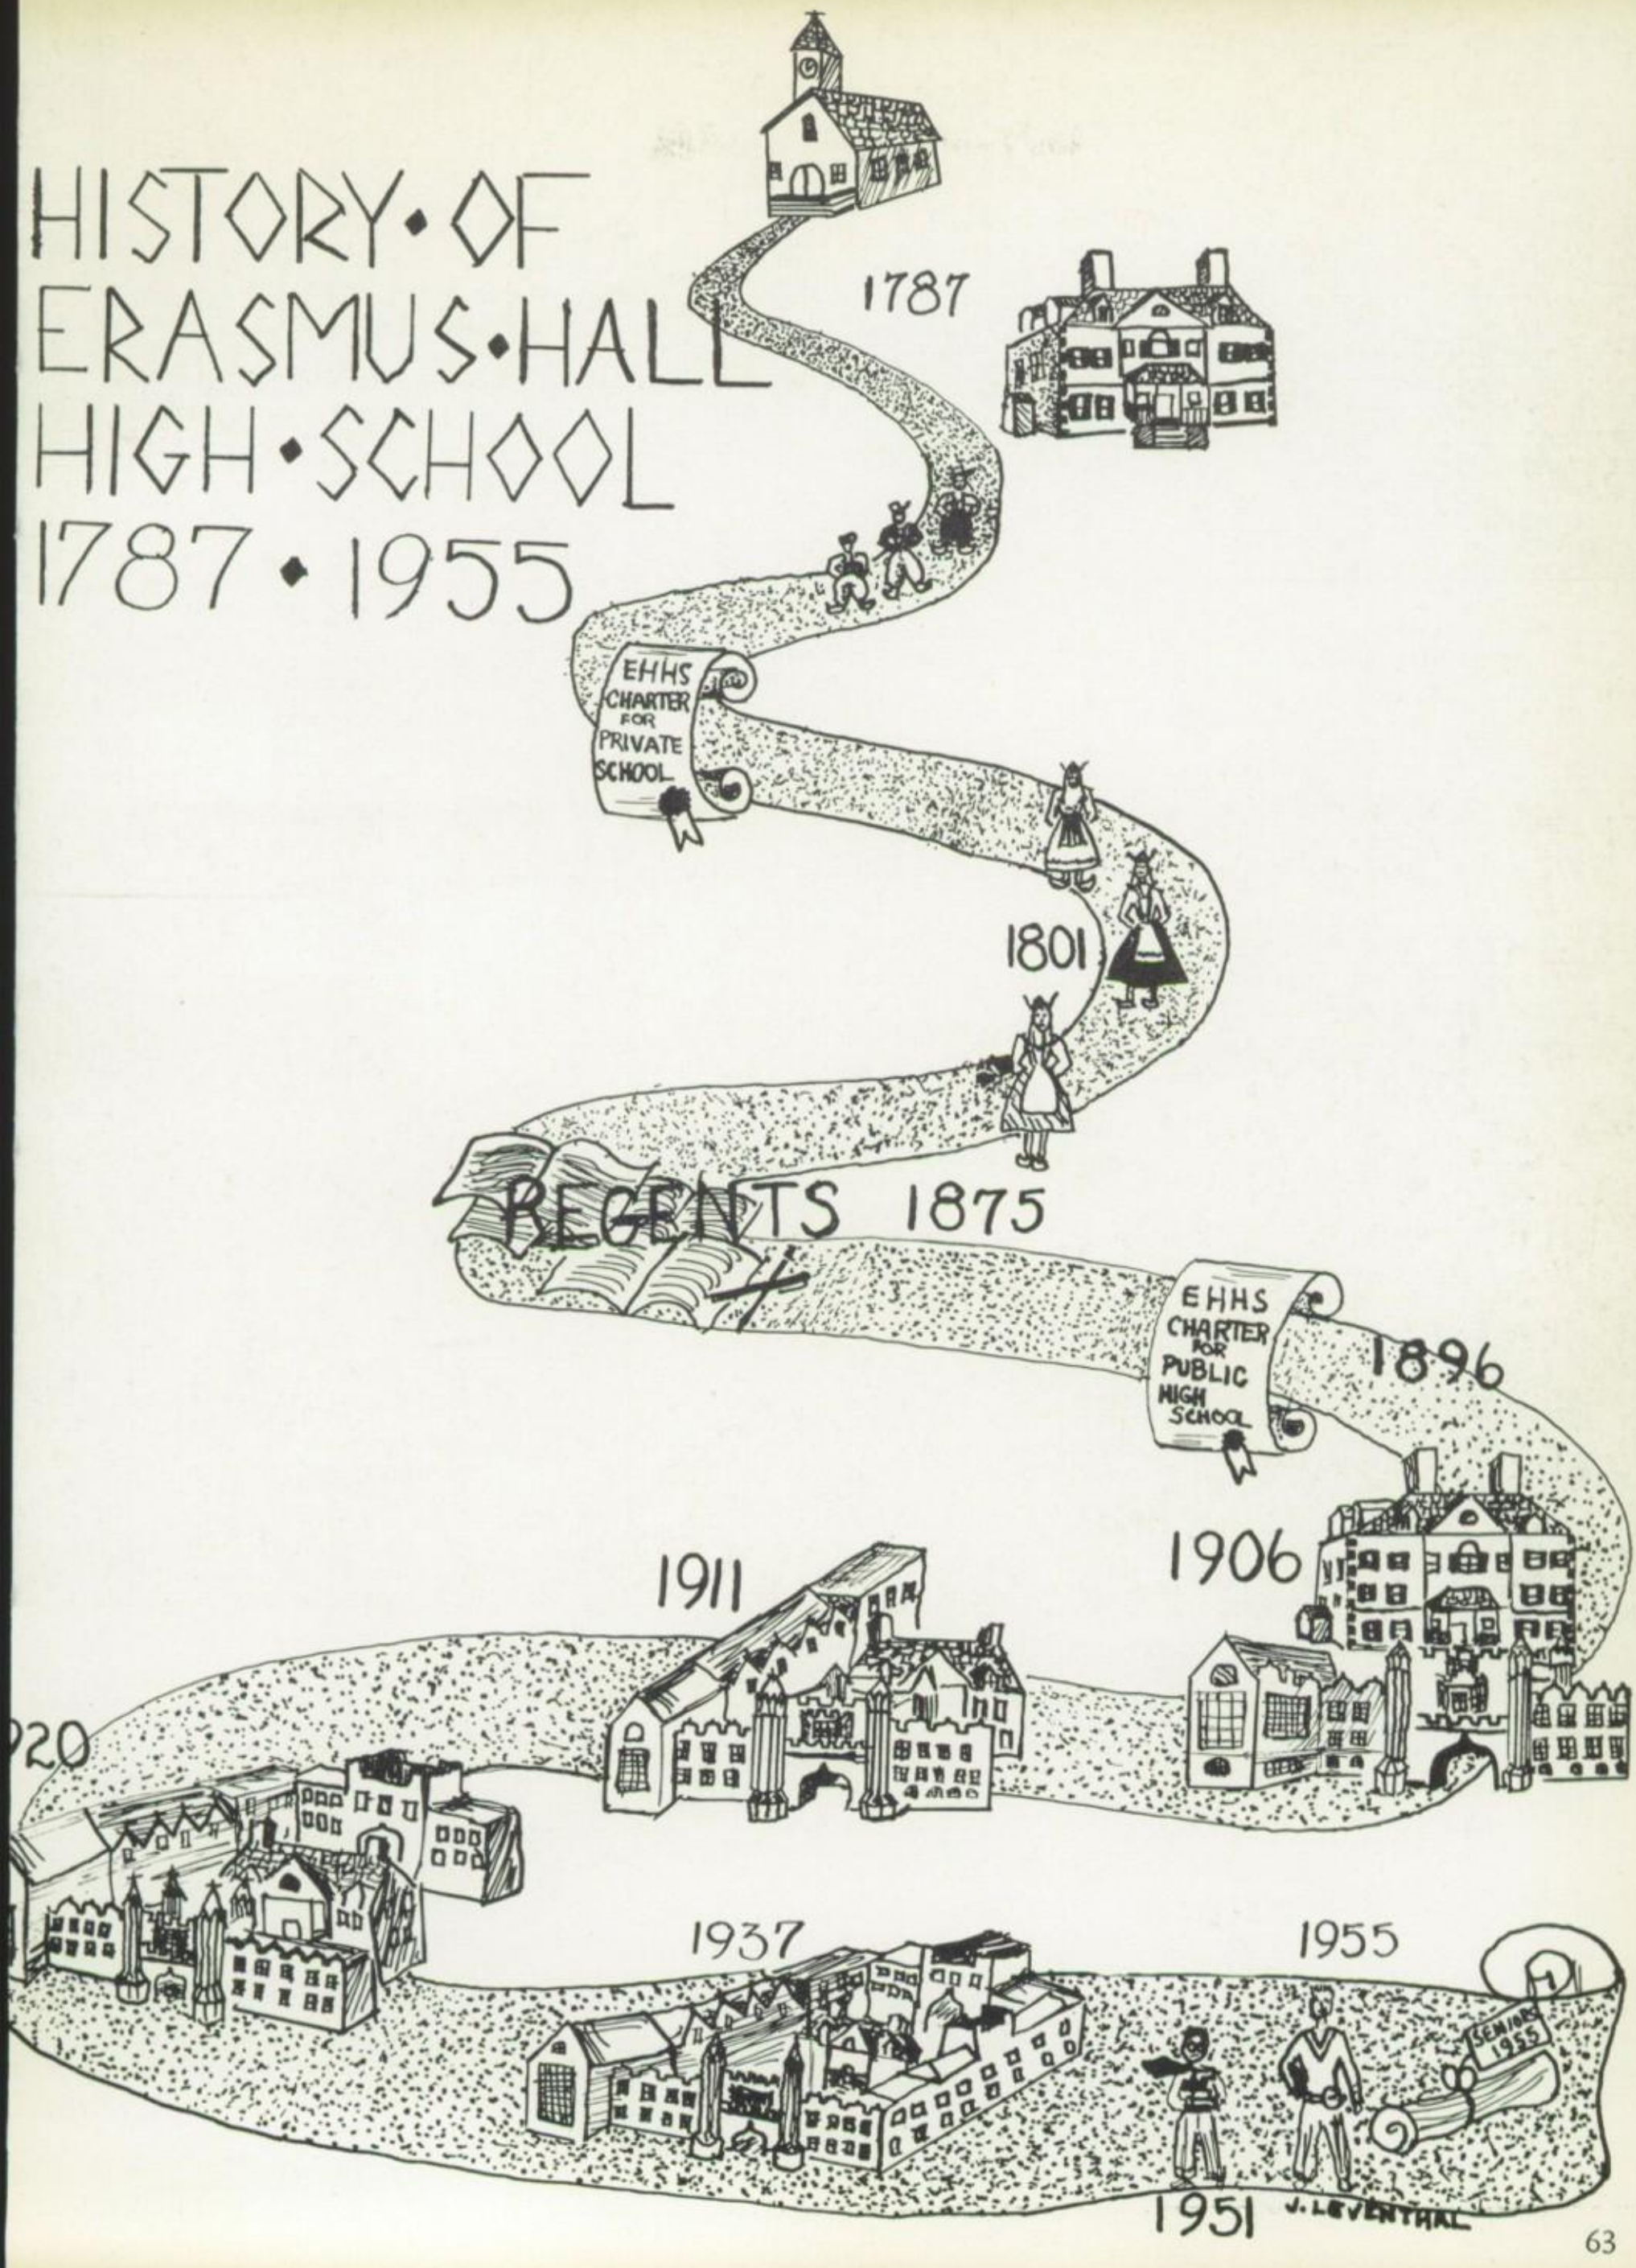


Let me introduce myself. I'm the old knarled oak tree that stands in the meadows in Prospect Park. My Saturday begins when the wind carries sounds of girls' laughter through the treetops to me. They file in from all directions, carrying their hockey sticks, and gather in groups around me. For forty years or more, I have been the center of activity for the Erasmus Hall Hockey Club. I remember when Miss Constance Applebee first brought the game from England and taught it to the teachers and students of Erasmus Hall. Among the early enthusiasts were Miss Grace L. Corey, Miss Anne McGlue, and Miss Beatrice Muller. This year the seniors streaked to victory led by head coaches Faith Charak and Alice Lamberson with the help of their coaches Sue Turk, Pat Mautner, Helene Cohen, Marlene Fishbane, and Barbara Kaplan. Winners of the coveted Major E's are Royce Berne, Faith Charak, Pat Mautner, Helene Cohen, Alice Lamberson, Marlene Fishbane, Judy Forst, Grace Kolligan, Ruth Steinbarg, Deanna Rudman, Barbara Kaplan, Helene Engel, Linda Wachs, and Sue Turk.

Some of you may have seen me, others used me, and still others have gathered around me. I am the broken down, beaten up, wooden bench out at softball. For some twenty years I have watched girls of Erasmus Hall out at the fields of Prospect Park's Parade Grounds swinging bats and hitting balls. In the many years I have been standing, I have been used by many girls. Not only have I been used to sit on, but around me girls have gathered to have their attendance taken. This year's coaches, Pat Mautner and Deanna Rudman, did a fine job in teaching the girls the technique of softball and helping them improve their skills. Among some of the outstanding players on the field this year were: Joan Balton, Barbara Barnathan, Helene Engel, Norma Franklin, Delvita Hobson, Barbara Kaplan, Judith Levy, Judith Liebowitz, Pat Mautner, Lenore Spiegel, and Carol White.

And now we emerge from fantasy land to find the best sports group in the city. For years Erasmus Hall has led the other high schools in the sports world and this year's group of seniors are proud of having added to its name.

HISTORY OF ERASMUS HALL HIGH SCHOOL 1787 • 1955



DEAR GRADUATES OF JANUARY, 1955:

CONGRATULATIONS! This issue of the Arch has been dedicated to your future. What happens to you in later life and how well you are prepared is of concern to me. You have received an excellent foundation in skills and knowledges, and you have been given various opportunities to develop the proper attitudes towards people and work. The pride and loyalty that you have shown in Erasmus should give you the dignity and spirit necessary for success not only at work, at college, but also in your social life.

The world is full of half-planned careers and partially successful people. It is a fact that those who remain in school longest get the most out of education and are most successful. I hope that you will make every effort to go to some institution of higher learning. Every moment spent in education will repay you in hours of enjoyment in later life.

I wish you well for the future and an abundance of success. It has been most gratifying to me to have helped in the planning of your life's work.

Sincerely,

Birdie C. Grumet

COMMENCEMENT
June 1955

But yesterday you entered through the Arch,
Too swift, today is here, and you must go
Through other gates, through other fields to search,
And what tomorrow holds, no man may know.

We know we've set you on the road to right,
To recognize, to want, and seek the true;
To know a little ray makes darkness light;
To know your mind belongs to none but you.

So young, so bright, and straight—a notion's heart—
You glow with power to learn, to lead, to care.
God's Grace will lead you, as you walk apart
To give the talents found, and gain your share

Of worlds of lore and every precious skill.
And, coming through the Arch again, be students, still.

Erna Fleischer.
